“A-Cappella Harmony Singing”

Tutor: The Skeptics

Description

This workshop will draw you into understanding the power of the one musical instrument we all have, our voice, and especially for those that say they can't sing, you are not a hopeless case if you haven't been to a Skeptics Workshop, for those that can sing this workshop will raise you to the next level.

Andy Zukowski, Peter 'Badger' West and David Alleyn, collectively known as The SKEPTICS, are a North Oxfordshire based, male a-cappella trio, widely known for our creative harmonies and distinctive style. With their musical roots firmly planted in a variety of genres including folk, rock, jazz and choral, they came together in 2009 via a shared desire to bring something different to the folk canon whilst honouring its traditions and heritage. As regular performers at several regional festivals including Folk Weekend Oxford, BunkFest, Cropredy Fringe and Banbury Folk Festival, and delighting audiences of all ages, they have steadily built up a reputation as the perfect act for any occasion with our quirky entertaining performances. With 3 albums already released, and another in the pipeline, The SKEPTICS audio recordings span an eclectic mix of songs and styles, including everything from Blur to Bagpuss and Bluegrass to The Bahamas ... all of which perfectly encapsulates their passion for mixing the traditional with the unexpected. So, whether you catch The SKEPTICS at a live gig, watch our curated selection of videos on YouTube, or listen to their audio recordings on SoundCloud, you'll be amazed at the wide range of genres we can "Skepticise" into folk/rock fusion.
